Read the unseen passage given and answer the questions :

Education has always two objects :
 on the one hand, to give skill; and on the other hand, to impact wisdom.

The role of skill has become very much layer than it used to be and is increasingly threatening to oust the role of wisdom. At the same time it must be admitted that wisdom in our world is useless except for those who realize the great part played by skill, for it is increase of skill that is the distinctive feature of our world.

Although scientific skill is necessary it is by no means sufficient. A dictatorship of men of science would very soon become horrible. Skill without wisdom may prove destructive for this reasons, if for no other, it is of great importance that those who receive a scientific education should not be merely scientific, but should have some understanding of that kind of wisdom which if it can be imparted at all, can only be imparted by cultural side of education. Science enables us to know the means to any chosen end, but it does not help m to decide upon what ends should be pursued. If you wish to exterminate the human race, it will show you how to do it. If you wish to secure adequate prosperity for the whole human race, science will tell you what you must do. But it will tell you whether one of these ends is more desirable than another. It cannot teach you patience, it cannot teach you sympathy, it cannot teach you sense of human dignity. These things, insofar, as they can be taught in formal education, are most likely to emerge from the learning of history and great literature.

Answer the question given below-

 The Jataka stories recount the many previous birth of the Buddha in human and animal lives. In all there are 547 stories, originally told by Buddha to his disciples. They were written down in Pali language around 400 BC and absorbed into the Buddhist Canon not long ago after his death. The stories show the progression of his lives through many incarnations, gradually acquiring the wisdom, selflessness and thoughtfulness which eventually lead to enlightenment. In each birth he performed some meritorious deed to bring him spiritual progress. Here is one of his stories.

A hare once lived in the forest with his animal friends, the Jackal the other and the monkey. The animal respected the hare as he was wise and gentle. One day he said that they should all fast and give whatever food they gathered to whoever needed it. So the monkey found ripe mangoes the Jackal found a Lizard and a pot of milk and the other found a fish. But the hare could not find any food and vowed that if anyone is hungry, he would offer him his own body, this tremendous vow was heard by the earth herself, who told Sakka, Lord of the devas. He decided to test the hare. Sakka entered the forest disguised as a beggar and asked hare for food. Please eat my body the hare replied without hesitation.

So Sakka built fire and the hare willingly ran into the flames. Feeling no pain, he rose up to heaven. In gratitude, Sakka drew an image of hare on the moon for everyone to see and remember the hare's selfless sacrifice.

Note- Read the passage given below and answer the questions based on the passage :

From the time he was a boy, Lincoln had to help his father in the fields. On many days he was not able to go to school because he was too busy working at home. But he practiced reading and worked at arithmetic, keeping awake late in the night. Although he went to school for less than a year in all, he taught himself a great many things by reading all the books he could get hold of. There are some moving stories of the trouble he used to take to get books. One afternoon he walked twenty miles, just to borrow a book he wanted to read. Another time, he borrowed from a neighbour a biography of George Washington, but two nights later the rain coming through the roof of his poor hut, completely spoilt the book. "Well, you can have the book for yourself if you make good its cost, by working on my farm", the neighbour said. - Read the passage and answer the following questions (21-30) -
 I felt usually lonely as I got off the train as I was the only passenger. I was used to arrive in the summer when holiday makers flocked to the Coastal resorts and this was my first visit when the season. My destination was a small village eight miles by road. It took me only a few minutes to come to the foot of the mountain pass, and when I reached the top I had left all traces of habitation behind me.

I was surprised to notice that the sky was already burning as the sunset. It seem to be getting dark surprisingly fast I was at a loss to account for the exceptional earliness of daylight as I did not think I walked unduly slowly. Then I remember that on the previous trip, I walked in high summer and now it was October.

Once it was night as the track was grassy and barely-visible even in daylight, it was hard to walk. I was afraid of hitting the rocks below from the edge of the cliff. I felt my leg squelching and something wet. Then I stumbled into a small clump of trees in front of me. I climbed on to the nearest trunk and managed to find a tolerably comfortable perch to sit on. I went from cold to cold and could only sleep in uncomfortable fitful starts. When the sun finally rose I was on top of myself again.

A recent survey has brought back focus on teenage smoking According to the survey 80% of smokes from the habit when they are minors It is estimated that one out of five teenage smokers smokes about 10 cigarettes everyday What is more, teenage smokers are no longer satisfied with nicotine and are increasingly taking to deadly contraband like marijuana Initially, smoking starts from curiosity but soon becomes a habit Oblivious of the fatal dangers involved, nascent smokers ignore even the statutory warning inscribed on the pack Forming the habit of smoking in an early age is often attributed to a whole lot of psychological reason but the problem is also precipitated by the glamorous representation of smoking by stars on the silver screen, linking it with style. Peer pressure is another big reason for minors laking up smoking because, locally manufactured tan cigarettes also push them towards this habit. These cigarettes are particularly popular among the youth as they are available at a significantly lower price than the legally manufactured cigarettes. According to a FICCI report on these cigarettes the government suffers has revenue losses annually due to them, while youth falls victims to smoking. While in the short terms smokers get sick due to common ailments in the long run the long run their lungs get badly affected. Diseases such as a oral cancer are associated with tobacco use in any form.

Smokers can quite smoking by monitoring some their foods habits. Food rich in vitamin C reduce the urge to smoke. Also milk, celery, carrot, fruits and vegetables when taken before smoking campel the smoker to quite the habit.

Note- Read, the passage and answer the following questions - (0-71 to 75)

"Many people believe that science and religion are contrary' to each other. But his notation is wrong. As a matter of fact both are correlated to each other. There is no doubt that the method of science and religion are different.

The method of science is observation, experimentation and experience.

Science takes it recourse to progressive march towards perfection. The rules of religion are faith, intuition and spoken word of the enlightened. In general, while science is inclined towards reason and rationality, spiritualism is the essence of religion.

In earlier times when man appeared on Earth, he was over-awed at the sight of violent and powerful aspects of nature. In certain cases, the usefulness of different natural objects of nature overwhelmed man.

Thus began the worship of forces of nature-fire, the sun, the rivers, the rocks the trees, the snakes etc. The holy scriptures were written by those who had developed harmony between external nature and their inner self. Their objective was to ennoble, elevate and liberate the human spirit and mind. But the priestly class took upon itself the monopoly of scriptural knowledge and interpretation to its own advantage.

Thus, the entire human race was in chains. Truth was flouted and progressive, liberal and truthful or ideas expressing doubt and scepticism were suppressed and their holders punished. It was in these trying circumstances the science emerged as a saviour of mankind. But its path was not smooth and safe. The scientists and free thinkers were tortured. This was the fate of corpernicus. Gaileo, Bruno and others. But side by side science gained ground.

Unseen Passage -

In the 16th century, an age of great marine and terrestrial exploration, Ferdinand Magellan led the first expedition to sail around the world. As a Young Portuguese Noble he served the King of Portugal, but he became involved in the quajmire of political intrigue at court and lost the King's favour. After he was dismissed from service by the King of Portugal, he offered to serve the future Emperor Charles V of Spain.

A papal decree of 1493 had assigned all land in the New World West of 50 degree N longitude to Spain and all the land east of that line to Portugal. Magellan offered to prove that the East Indies fell under Spanish Authority. On September 20, 1519, Magellan set sail from Spain with five ships. More than a year later, one of these ships was exploring the topography of South America in search of water route across the continent. This ship sank, but the remaining four ships searched along the southern peninsula of South America. Finally they found the passage they sought near 50 degree S latitude. Magellan named this passage the Strait of All Saints, but today, it is known as the Strait of Magellan.

One ship deserted while in this passage and returned to Spain. So fewer sailors were privileged to gaze at that first panorama of the Pacific Ocean. Those who remained crossed the Meridian now known as the International Date Line in the early spring of 1521 after 98 days on the Pacific Ocean. During those long days at sea, many of Magellan's men died of starvation and disease.

Later, Magellan became involved in an insular conflict in the Philippines and was killed in a tribal battle. Only one ship and 17 sailors under the command of the Basque Navigator Elcano survived to complete the westward journey to Spain and thus prove, once and for all that the world is round, with no precipice at the edge.

India achieved independence in 1947. In 1950 the country took two momentous decisions. The first was the adoption of a democratic constitution. The second was the acceptance of the idea of planning. The preamble of the constitution laid down the following goals, Equality, Justice, Fraternity, Liberty and the dignity of the individual. The directive principles of the constitution described the major problems which the country must solve in order to attain the goals of the preamble. India's two major problems are poverty and inequality. The aim of planning in India is to get rid to these two evils.
